The short-term liabilities include the next period income for the received co-financing of EUR 86 894 for which the outflow of funds will not occur in 2021. The Company owns a large real estate. It has invested great work and a lot of money in improvement and reconstruction to improve the effectiveness of expenditure of energy. Autonomous heating system is created. The continuation of economic activity will be ensured by entering into contracts for renting the real estate, taking into account the principle of leasing as much space as possible to a single tenant. The lease contracts for real estate are expected to be concluded in 2021? The Company's management predicts it will not have liquidity problems and the Company will be able to settle with creditors within the deadline set. Therefore, the management of the Company considers that the going concern principle is applicable in the preparation of these financial statements.

After the end of the reporting year, in March 2020 limitations arrising from the spread of the coronavirus continued to be in place in the Republic of Latvia and in other countries. The development of the situation is not predictable therefore an economic uncertainty prevails. The management of the Company is constantly contemplating the situation. Currently the management of the Company does not experience significant adverse consequences arising from the situation and the management expects to be able to attact new tenants to its real estate. The management will also cooperate ith state institutions and will apply for support if necessary. Nevertheless, these assumptions are based on the publicly available information and the real outcomes of the situation might differ from the management's assumptions.

Financial risk management

The most significant financial instruments of the Company are borrowings from banks and cash. The aim of these financial instruments is to finance the operating activities of the Company. The Company also has a number of other financial instruments, such as trade receivables and trade creditors, arising directly from its operations. The Company is exposed it to market risk, credit risks, liquidity risk and cash flow risk in relation to its financial instruments.

The market risk is a risk that changes in market factors such as foreign exchange rates, interest rates and commodity prices will affect the company's earnings or the value of its owned financial instruments. The market risk includes currency risk and interest-rate risk.

The risk of interest rates is the risk of losses due to changes in interest rates of the Company's assets and liabilities. The Company is at risk of a change in market interest rates due to its long-term liabilities, which have variable interest rates.

The Company's borrowings have variable interest rates. The management of the Company manages the interest rate risk by regularly monitoring the market interest rates available.

The Company's activities are not directly exposed to the risk of fluctuations in foreign exchange rates because transactions with customers, as well as settlement with suppliers, are taking place in the euro. As long as receivables from Belarus are not settled, the risk factor is the exchange rate of local currency in purchasers' country against EUR which burden their settlement.

Financial resources potentially exposing the Company to a certain degree of credit risk concentration are mainly cash and purchaser and customer debts. At the end of the reporting period, the Company was not exposed to a significant degree of credit risk concentration because in 2020 the Company has respected the credit policy by selling goods on credit only to customers with a good solvency. Considering that stocks of remaining inventory are small in the warehouse, the potential effect of this risk is still decreasing. The debts of buyers and customers are presented in the recoverable value. The Company's partners in cash transactions are local financial institutions with an appropriate credit history.

The Company pursues a prudent liquidity risk management maintaining sufficient credit resources that allow settling liabilities when they fall due. The management of the Company manages the liquidity and cash flow risk by monitoring forecasted and actual cash flows and by matching term structure of financial assets and liabilities.

The Company believes it will have sufficient resources to ensure its liquidity.

Subsequent events

In the period between the last day of the reporting year and the date of signing of the annual report, a lease agreement of 5000 square meters was signed, which will improve the financial situation.

Future prospects and further development

Next year it is intended to sell the remaining stocks of finished products from the warehouse and actively seek the possibility of leasing or partly selling the buildings owned by the Company.

(f) Intangible assets and fixed assets

Intangible assets and fixed assets are recorded at historical cost net of accumulated depreciation. Historical cost includes expenditure that is directly attributable to the acquisition of the intangible assets and fixed assets. The cost of software licences includes the purchase cost and costs related to their implementation in use.

Land is not depreciated. Depreciation on other assets is calculated using the straight-line method to allocate their cost or revalued amounts to their residual values over their estimated useful lives using the following rates set by management:

| | % gadā |
|--------------------------------------|--------|
| Intangible assets | 20 |
| Buildings and engineering structures | 1-8,3 |
| Technological equipment and devices | 14-50 |
| Other fixtures and fittings | 10-20 |

Where the carrying amount of an intangible or a fixed asset exceeds its estimated recoverable amount, it is written down immediately to its recoverable amount. Recoverable amount is the higher of the fair value less costs to sell and the value in use of the related intangible or fixed asset.

Subsequent costs are included in the asset's carrying amount or recognised as separate asset, as appropriate, only when it is probable that future economic benefits associated with the item will flow to the Company and the cost of the item can be measured reliably. Such costs are depreciated over the remaining useful life of the related asset. When capitalising the cost of mounted spare parts, the carrying value of the part replaced is written off to the profit and loss account.

Repairs and maintenance are charged to the profit and loss account during the period in which they are incurred.

Gains or losses on disposals are determined by comparing carrying amount with proceeds and are charged to the profit and loss account during the period in which they are incurred.

(g) Inventories

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost and net realisable value. Cost is determined using the weighted average price method. Net realisable value is the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business, less the costs of completion and selling expenses. When the net realisable value of inventories is lower than its cost, provisions are created to reduce the value of inventories to its net realisable value.

Inventory of materials and purchased parts is estimated using weighted average prices.

Inventory of finished goods is valued in accordance with net sale value.

(h) Accounts receivable and issued loans

Accounts receivable and issued loans are recorded in the balance sheet at their amortised cost less provisions for impairment. Provisions for impairment are established when there is an objective evidence that the Company will not be able to collect all amounts due according to the original terms of receivables. The amount of provisions for impairment is the difference between the amortised cost and the recoverable amount. The amount of the provision is recognised in the profit and loss account.

(i) Operating leases - The Company as a lessor

Assets that are leased out under operating lease terms are recorded within fixed assets at historic cost or revaluated amount less depreciation. Depreciation is calculated on a straight-line basis to write down each asset to its estimated residual value over its estimated useful life using rates set for similar Company's assets. Rental income from operating lease including advances received is recognised on a straight-line basis over the period of the lease.

(j) Investments in associated companies

Investments in associated companies are accounted for at cost net of accumulated impairment loss. The Company recognises the income only to the extent the distribution of the profit accumulated after the acquisition date is received from the respective associated company. Received distributions in excess of such profit are regarded as recovery of the investment and are booked as a decrease of the cost of investment.

When there is objective evidence that the carrying amount of the investment in associated company has impaired, the impairment loss is calculated as a difference between the carrying amount of the investment and its recoverable amount. The recoverable amount is determined as the higher of its fair value less costs to sell and its value in use. An impairment loss recognised in prior periods can be reversed only if there has been a change in the estimates used to determine the investment's recoverable amount since the last impairment loss was recognized.

(k) Grants

Grants relating to the purchase of specific assets are recorded as deferred income and are credited to the profit and loss account on a straight-line basis over the expected lives of the related assets. Grants granted to cover the expenses are recognised as an income in the same period when respective expenses have arisen if all conditions associated with the receipt of grant have been fulfilled.

(I) Borrowings

Borrowings are recognised initially at the proceeds received net of transaction costs incurred. In subsequent periods, borrowings are stated at amortised cost using the effective interest method; any difference between proceeds (net of transaction costs) and the redemption value is recognised in the profit and loss account.

(m) Accrued unused annual leave expenses

Amount of accrual for unused annual leave is determined by multiplying the average daily wage of employees for the last six months of the reporting year by the amount of accrued but unused annual leave at the end of the reporting year.

(n) Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents comprise cash balances of current account with banks.

Responsibilities of Management and Those Charged with Governance for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation of the financial statements that give a true and fair view in accordance with the 'Law On the Annual Reports and Consolidated Annual Reports' of the Republic of Latvia and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Company's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Company or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance are responsible for overseeing the Company's financial reporting process.

Auditor's Responsibility for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with ISAs will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with ISAs, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional scepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.

- Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Company to cease to continue as a going concern.
- Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves a fair presentation.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence and objectivity, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards.

From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the financial statements of the current period and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditors' report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.

Other reporting responsibilities and confirmations required by the legislation of the Republic of Latvia and the European Union when providing audit services to public interest entities

We were appointed by those charged with governance to audit the financial statements of AS "Rīgas autoelektroaparātu rūpnīca" for the year ended 31 December 2020. Our total uninterrupted period of engagement is 4 years, covering the periods ending 31 December 2017 to 31 December 2020.
